Social Science, Arts and Humanities Foundation Fellowships

Grant Title
AMS Howard Mayer Brown Fellowships

Description
Intended to increase the presence of minority scholars and teachers in musicology, the fellowship will support one year of graduate work for a member of a group historically underrepresented in the discipline. Applications are encouraged from African Americans, Native Americans, Latinos/Hispanics, and Asian Americans. Nominations may come from a faculty member of the institution at which the student is enrolled, from a member of the AMS at another institution, or directly from the student. The fellowship is awarded in alternating years. Inquiries should be addressed to the chair of the committee. Applications should be made using the online submission form.

Requirements
The fellowship will be awarded to a student who has completed at least one year of academic work at an institution with a graduate program in musicology, and who intends to complete a PhD in the field.

Amount
$17,000 stipend

Grant Title
Carnegie Endowment for International Peace Junior Fellows Program:

Description
Each year the endowment offers eight to 10 one-year fellowships to uniquely qualified graduating seniors and individuals who have graduated during the past academic year. They are selected from a pool of nominees from close to 300 colleges (list of participating colleges available online). Junior fellows provide research assistance to associates working on the Carnegie Endowment's projects such as nonproliferation, democracy building, trade, U.S. leadership, China-related issues, and Russian/Eurasian studies. Junior fellows have the opportunity to conduct research for books, co-author journal articles and policy papers, participate in meetings with high-level officials, contribute to congressional testimony, and organize briefings attended by scholars, activists, journalists, and government officials. The endowment's annual nomination deadline is the listed application deadline; colleges generally set an earlier application deadline (contact the college's Career Services/Placement Office to learn more about the college application process). Information to participating universities generally is sent by the second week of October each year. All fellowships begin on August 1.

Requirements
The Carnegie Endowment accepts applications only through participating universities via designated nominating officials. The program relies on participating universities to nominate uniquely qualified students. Students need not be US citizens; however, all applicants must be eligible to work in the United States from August 1 through July 31 following graduation.

Restrictions
Students who have started graduate studies are not eligible for nomination.

Amount
$2,750 per month plus benefits

AIR National Summer Data Policy Institute Fellowships:

Description
The Association for Institutional Research (AIR), with support from the National Center for Educational Statistics (NCES) and the National Science Foundation (NSF), has developed a program, Improving Institutional Research in Postsecondary Educational Institutions. The goals of the program are to provide professional development opportunities to doctoral students, institutional researchers, educators and administrators, and to foster the use of the federal databases for institutional research in postsecondary education. The program has four main components: a National Data Policy Institute held each summer in the Washington, D.C. area to study the national databases of NSF and NCES; dissertation fellowships for doctoral students; research grants for practitioners and faculty; and a focused grant program supported by the National Postsecondary Education Cooperative. Dissemination of research findings is an integral part of this program. Fellowships are available to cover roundtrip transportation from the Fellow's home to Washington, D.C., hotel accommodations, a fixed per diem reimbursement for meals and incidental expenses for the duration of the Institute, and a one-year AIR membership. Acceptance to the Institute is made on the basis of a short proposal.
Requirements
Applicants must have a basic knowledge of statistical methods and be experienced in the use of software packages (i.e., SPSS, SAS). Applicants should also have an interest in using national databases for studies in institutional research. The National Data Policy Institute is open to institutional researchers, faculty, graduate students, and educators affiliated with a U.S. postsecondary institution or governance agency. A limited number of Fellowships are available to similar personnel in non-U.S. institutions. Unaffiliated individuals should contact AIR before preparing a proposal for submission. Prospective Institute Fellows are strongly encouraged to study the databases of NSF and NCES before submitting a proposal. Proposals must be submitted via the online proposal submission tool (http://airweb.org/DataPolicySubmission.html). Guidelines and detailed instructions are available at the website.

Restrictions
Proposals may not be considered for review by AIR for the following reasons: (1) inappropriate for AIR funding; (2) failure to meet AIR requirements for proposal content, format, etc.; or (3) failure to meet announced proposal deadline requirements.

Deadline
Jan

Deadline Satisfied
Receipt of application satisfies deadline date requirement.

AIR/IES-NCES Postdoctoral Policy Fellowships in Washington:

Description
The program is a project funded by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES). Postdoctoral Fellow projects will be responsible for undertaking analysis that results in improvements to the quality, comparability, and usefulness of the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS). Fellows will be introduced to the Washington higher education policy community through meetings, seminars and conversations. Fellowships provide $5,000 monthly for support while the Fellow is in residence in Washington, for a period of from nine to twelve months. An additional $5,000 will be provided for expenses for the life of the fellowship. It is expected that Fellows will be advanced graduate students completing dissertations, postdoctoral students, or institutional research professionals. The award amount is set with the expectation that the Fellowship will provide support for an individual working in residence at NCES for a period of 9 to 12 months. Proposals with other residency formats may be acceptable, and individuals may propose a project of shorter duration.

Requirements
Applications may be submitted at any time. Institutional researchers, graduate students, postdoctoral students, faculty, and others may submit applications. Fellows must be US citizens or permanent residents, and will be employees of AIR during the period of the Fellowship. Before formal submission, the application should be discussed with the AIR staff. Detailed guidelines and application instructions are available at the website. Applications must be submitted electronically, as a Microsoft Word or PDF e-mail attachment. Individuals unable to submit in this manner should contact the Project Manager for an alternative method.

Restrictions
Financial assistance for Fellowships is subject to certain statutory and other general requirements, including compliance with Circular A-133 Audit requirements and various federal statutes: Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, and other laws and regulations prohibiting discrimination; prohibition of misconduct in science and engineering; Drug-Free Workplace requirements; restrictions on lobbying; patent and copyright requirements; cost-sharing; and the use of U.S.-flag carriers for international travel. Intellectual property developed under the Postdoctoral Policy Fellow is in the public domain.

Amount
$50,000 - $60,000

AIR/NCES Fellowships for Graduate Study:

Description
The Association for Institutional Research (AIR), as part of its contract to improve the quality of institutional research in U.S. postsecondary education systems and hence, the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS), offers a graduate fellowship program funded by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES). The fellowships are for graduate study advancing or leading to careers in institutional research, thereby increasing the national level of expertise of institutional research officers and the data that they produce. The program awards individual fellowships for full- and part-time study for up to $10,000 annually for full-time study, $3,000 annually for part-time study. Award funds may be used for tuition, fees and other educational expenses while enrolled in a graduate program.

Requirements
Candidates must demonstrate knowledge and commitment to IR through work experience (current or prior) or previous coursework. Currently employed IR professionals are urged to apply. Fellowships may be used at any regionally accredited U.S. institution. The applicant's proposal must make the case that the course of study is appropriate for preparing for a career in institutional research, by showing that the program addresses the core competencies of institutional research. Three levels of credit-bearing graduate work will be considered eligible for the awards: certificate, masters and doctorate.

Restrictions
There is a three year maximum for the fellowship.

UNCFSP IIPP Fellowship Junior Summer Policy Institute:

Description
In early June, following their junior year abroad, IIPP Fellows attend the Junior Summer Policy Institute (JSPI) at the University of Maryland’s School of Public Policy. The JSPI includes seven weeks of intensive, graduate-level work in international relations and foreign policy on such topics as security, development, economics and trade, and statistics. Coursework is designed to prepare Fellows for successful admission to and completion of graduate school. At the JSPI, Fellows are introduced to international policy analysis and its core techniques through work on such contemporary issues as the digital divide, foreign aid, and national security. During the JSPI, Fellows participate in discussions with a variety of faculty and speakers, including career placement officers and specialists familiar with foreign policy issues. JSPI also builds on the concepts of cultural competence introduced at SSPI. Recruitment and career days provide Fellows with time to meet with representatives and admissions officers from international affairs graduate schools participating in the graduate school component of IIPP. The JSPI program runs from early June through the end of July.

Requirements
Eligibility requirements include the following: enrolled full-time at an accredited four–year baccalaureate-granting institution; U.S. Citizens or legal residents (documentary support required); have a minimum 3.2 grade point average; possess excellent critical analysis and leadership skills; have a strong demonstrated interest in international affairs, public policy and language training; are an underrepresented minority (African American, Hispanic, Asian American, American Indian, Alaskan Native, Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander); plan to seek admission to a two-year master’s degree program in international affairs.

UNCFSP IIPP Fellowship Sophomore Summer Policy Institute:

Description
Students accepted into The IIPP Fellowship Program begin their journey with the seven-week Sophomore Summer Policy Institute (SSPI). SSPI is hosted by Spelman College, one of the premier liberal arts institutions in the country and a pioneer among HBCUs – especially in the arena of international education. The SSPI introduces Fellows to the basics of international policy development, foreign affairs, cultural competence, careers in these fields, and options for graduate study. To assist Fellows in putting what they learn at the SSPI into context, they participate in study missions to Washington, DC and New York, NY through briefings at the Department of Education, the Department of State, and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), as well as with such organizations as the Council on Foreign Relations, the United Nations and the World Bank. The SSPI program runs from early June through the end of July.

Requirements
Eligibility requirements from undergraduate sophomores include the following: enrolled full-time at an accredited four-year baccalaureate-granting institution; U.S. Citizens or legal residents (documentary support required); have a minimum 3.2 grade point average; possess excellent critical analysis and leadership skills; have a strong demonstrated interest in international affairs, public policy and language training; are an underrepresented minority (African American, Hispanic, Asian American, American Indian, Alaskan Native, Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander); plan to seek admission to a two-year master’s degree program in international affairs.

UNCFSP IIPP Fellowship Master’s Degree Program in International Affairs:

Description
The IIPP Fellowship completes the education experience by providing matching funds to support each Fellow’s pursuit of a master’s degree in international affairs. This portion of the IIPP fellowship is jointly funded by IIPP and participating graduate schools. The IIPP provides up to $15,000 in matching funds to Fellows attending an Association of Professional Schools of International Affairs (APSIA) graduate school. As partners in the IIPP effort, APSIA institutions provide matching fellowship support as it is available.

Requirements
Eligibility for graduate school funding by the IIPP program is dependent upon a fellow completing all five components of the fellowship program leading up to the graduate school component.

UNCFSP IIPP Internships:

Description
The IIPP internship component is generally a post-baccalaureate experience, however, an internship can also occur during the junior and/or senior years of college. Occasionally the post-baccalaureate internship can last up to a year, providing valuable job experience that strengthens a Fellow’s graduate school applications and bolsters his or her professional credentials. Internship opportunities have been greatly enhanced through partnership agreements with a variety of internationally-focused organizations. These organizations include such organizations/agencies as: the Congressional Research Service; Defense Intelligence Agency; U.S. State Department; CARE; TransAfrica Forum; One World Now!; West African Research Center; Visions in Action; Ernst and Young; for India; the International Rescue Committee; and many others.

Florence Tan Moeson Fellowships:

Description
This fellowship is made possible by the generous donation by Mrs. Florence Tan Moeson, a former cataloger in the Chinese Team of the Regional and Cooperative Cataloging Division for 45 years. The purpose of the fellowship is to provide individuals with the opportunity to pursue research on East, Southeast, and/or South Asia (including the overseas Asian communities), using the unparalleled collections of the Library of Congress in Washington, DC. The grants are for a minimum of five business days of research and are to be used to cover travel to and from Washington, overnight accommodations, and photocopying; or, to cover expenses incurred while traveling to the Library of Congress to engage in scholastic research in the area of Asian studies. Up to 15 awards are available from $300 to $2,500. Awards are announced in December.

Requirements
Graduate students, independent scholars, community college teachers, researchers without regular teaching appointments, and librarians with a need for fellowship support are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted online only.

Restrictions
Non-U.S. citizens and permanent residents who do not have a U.S. Social Security number must submit a Form W-7 to the Internal Revenue Service in order to obtain an individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN) prior to commencing their fellowship at the Library, regardless of the taxability of their income under this program or exemption under a treaty with the U.S.

Asian Pacific American Institute for Congressional Studies (APAICS) Fellowships:

Description
The fellowships are designed to provide unique opportunities to outstanding graduate students who have a commitment to the Asian Pacific Islander American communities, and who plan to pursue a career in public service. The fellows will spend nine months in Washington, D.C., in a Congressional office, in another branch of the government, or a non-profit organization. One fellow will spend nine months in the Congressional office of the Chair of the Asian Pacific American Caucus (CAPAC). These programs are made possible by the support of the following companies: Anheuser-Busch/Frank Horton Fellowship; Wal-Mart/Governor George R. Ariyoshi Fellowship; Sodexho Health and Policy Fellow; National Association of Realtors Fellow. APAICS will provide a total stipend of $20,000 to cover travel arrangements, housing and personal expenses for nine months. A separate stipend will be provided for basic health insurance coverage. In order to receive the full-stipend, the fellow will be required to participate in mandatory APAICS events, submit a report of activities, and complete an evaluation at the end of the program.

Requirements
Postgraduate and graduate applicants must meet the following requirements: 1) Demonstrated interest in the political process; 2) Demonstrated commitment to public policy issues and Asian Pacific Islander American community affairs; 3) Demonstrated leadership abilities; 4) Relevant work experience; 5) Excellent oral and written communication skills; 6) Must have a graduate or bachelor’s degree from an accredited educational institution. Minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale); 7) U.S. citizenship or legal permanent residency by September 1; 8) Submission of all application materials (Part I & II) by mail and email. All materials must be postmarked by the deadline.

Andrew W. Mellon/ACLS Dissertation Completion Fellowships:

Description
ACLS invites applications for the annual competition for the Mellon/ACLS Dissertation Completion Fellowships. These fellowships are to assist graduate students in the humanities and related social sciences in the last year of Ph.D. dissertation writing. This program aims to encourage timely completion of the Ph.D. Applicants must be prepared to complete their dissertations within the period of their fellowship tenure or shortly thereafter. ACLS will award 65 Fellowships in this competition for a one-year term beginning between June and September for the following academic year. The Fellowship tenure may be carried out in residence at the Fellow’s home institution, abroad, or at another appropriate site for the research. The total award of up to $33,000 includes a stipend plus additional funds for university fees and research support.

Requirements
Applicants must: be Ph.D. candidates in a humanities or social science department in the United States. Applicants from other departments may be eligible if their project is in the humanities or related social sciences, and their principal dissertation supervisor holds an appointment in a humanities field or related social science field. (Students completing master's degrees are not eligible, even if they are the terminal degree in the field); have all requirements for the Ph.D. except the dissertation completed before beginning fellowship tenure; and be no more than six years in the degree program (awardees can hold this Fellowship no later than their seventh year).

Restrictions
These Fellowships may not be held concurrently with any other major fellowship or grant.

Amount

Henry Luce Foundation/ACLS Dissertation Fellowships in American Art:

Description
The fellowships, which are made possible by funding from the Henry Luce Foundation, support graduate students in any stage of Ph.D. dissertation research or writing. To be eligible, a student must be a Ph.D. candidate in a department of art history, and the candidate's dissertation must be focused on a topic in the history of the visual arts of the United States. Students whose degrees will be granted by another department may be eligible if their principal dissertation advisor is in a department of art history and their dissertation topic is object-oriented. The fellowships are for a one-year nonrenewable term beginning in the summer.

Requirements
Applicants must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. except the dissertation before beginning the one-year tenure.

Restrictions
Fellowship funds may not be used to defray tuition costs. Students who received grants of $5,000 or more from the Henry Luce Program previously administered through university art departments are not eligible, nor are students preparing theses for the master of fine arts degree.

Ford Foundation International Fellowships

Description
The program supports advanced study by exceptional individuals who will use this education to become leaders in their respective fields, furthering development in their own countries and greater economic and social justice worldwide. Eligible fields of study are any academic discipline or field of study related to the foundation's three grant-making areas: asset building and community development—children, youth and families, sexuality and reproductive health, work-force development, development finance and economic security, environment and development, community development; education, media, and arts and culture—education reform; higher education and scholarship; religion, society and culture; media; and arts and culture; peace and social justice—human rights; international cooperation; governance; and civil society. The international fellowships provide support for up to three years of formal graduate-level study leading to a masters or doctoral degree. Fellows are selected from countries where the foundation maintains active overseas programs. Once selected, fellows may enroll in an appropriate university program anywhere in the world, including their country of residence. The program also enables fellows to undertake short-term language study and training in research and computer skills prior to graduate school enrollment.

Requirements
Applicants must be resident nationals or residents of Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Latin America, and Russia. Successful candidates will demonstrate superior achievement in their undergraduate studies and hold a baccalaureate degree or its equivalent; have substantial experience in community service or development-related activities; possess leadership potential evidenced by their employment and academic experience; propose to pursue a post-baccalaureate degree that will directly enhance their leadership capacity in a practical, policy, academic, or artistic discipline or field corresponding to one or more of the foundation's areas of endeavor; present a plan specifying how they will apply their studies to social problems or issues in their own countries; and commit themselves to working on these issues following the fellowship period.

Restrictions
US nationals are not eligible, although fellows may study in the United States.

Grant Title
Ford Foundation Peace and Social Justice Grants

Description
This program area supports two categories: human rights and international cooperation, and governance and civil society. Grants under human rights and international cooperation support projects involving women's rights and civil rights in the United States, international human rights, international law, multilateral conflict prevention, and US foreign policy. Governance and civil society grants support projects concerning civic participation, electoral reform, and innovations in state and local government. Most grants are given to organizations. The foundation also makes grants to individuals, though they are few in number relative to demand and are limited to research, training, and other activities related to the foundation's program interests. Support for graduate fellowships is generally provided through grants to universities and other organizations, which select recipients. Applications are considered throughout the year; a letter of inquiry is the first step of the application process.

Requirements
The letter of inquiry should include the purpose of the project, problems and issues addressed, information about the applicant organization, estimated overall budget, time period for which funds are requested, and qualifications of those engaged in the project.

Restrictions
Support is not normally given for routine operating costs of institutions or for religious activities. Except in rare cases, funding is not available for the construction or maintenance of buildings. The foundation does not award undergraduate scholarships or make grants for purely personal or local needs.

Aspen Institute William Randolph Hearst Endowed Fellowship for Minority Students:

Description
The Aspen Institute Program on Philanthropy and Social Innovation (PSI) in Washington, DC, offers the William Randolph Hearst Endowed Fellowship three times annually. The fellowship, which is based on academic excellence and need, is open to both undergraduate and graduate students of color. The Hearst Fellow serves as an intern with PSI. Through this fellowship, PSI seeks to introduce a diverse group of students to issues and challenges affecting philanthropy, social enterprise, nonprofit organizations, and other actors in the social sector. Recipients may arrange with their colleges or universities to receive academic credit for this experience. In his or her internship, the Hearst Fellow undertakes research, writing, logistical, and administrative support for PSI’s leadership initiatives, public programs, and convenings. The student must be able to intern for 12-15 weeks at the Washington, DC, office of the Aspen Institute. Fall and Spring internships will be part-time (15-20 hours per week) and Summer internships will be full-time. A fellowship grant of approximately $2,000 will be awarded to the Fall and Spring fellows and approximately $4,000 will be awarded to the Summer fellow.

Requirements
The ideal candidate for this fellowship is a highly motivated continuing graduate or undergraduate student from an underrepresented community of color. She or he should have an excellent academic record and also have the following: demonstrated interest or experience in nonprofit organizations, philanthropy, and the social sector; excellent research and writing skills; demonstrated financial need; and U.S. citizenship or U.S. permanent residency. There is no application form for this fellowship, send the following: letter of interest (include information about dates of availability for the fellowship); resume; official transcript; documentation from university financial aid office demonstrating financial need (such as an offer letter); two letters of recommendation. Official transcripts, official financial aid documentation, and recommendation letters must be: sent directly to the student in sealed envelopes and then mailed to Lauren Stebbins, or sent directly from the university and/or reference to Lauren Stebbins via mail or email, otherwise the application will not be considered.

Restrictions
Travel and housing costs are not covered by the fellowship grant.

Amount

Grant Title
American Academy of Arts and Sciences Visiting Scholars Program:

Description
The program supports research fellowships at the academy's visiting scholars center. Fellowships will be awarded to individuals who can demonstrate that their work will make a substantial contribution in one or more of the academy's four major research areas: science and global security; social policy and American institutions; humanities and culture; and education. The academy also welcomes proposals that explore the impact of scientific and technological advances over the past two centuries on American institutions, humanities and culture in America, American foreign policy, and global security. Proposals should take into account the academy's emphasis on interdisciplinary work, as well as its interest in broadening public understanding of important intellectual trends and contemporary policy choices. In addition to pursuing individual projects, scholars participate in activities of the academy; collaboration with academy fellows is encouraged. Visiting scholars remain in residence at the academy throughout the academic year (September-May), with some fellowships eligible for a one-year renewal. Faculty remain in residence for one academic year, although one-semester fellowships may be considered. Scholars receive office space, computer services, library privileges, and assistance in locating housing. Health benefits can be arranged. Applicants are responsible for contacting three references and ensuring that their letters are mailed to the academy by the postmark deadline. Faculty can receive up to $60,000 (not to exceed one-half of current salary). Postdocs receive an annual stipend of up to $40,000. The Academy provides office space, computer services, library privileges, and information on locating housing.

Requirements
Preference is given to untenured junior faculty but the program is also open to qualified postdocs. Candidates must be U.S. citizens, permanent residents, or current employees of an academic or professional organization in the United States. The Ph.D., J.D, or equivalent professional training (e.g., public policy) should have been completed within the last 10 years (although exceptional circumstances will be taken into consideration). Graduate student applicants must complete all degree requirements by August 1.

Restrictions
Research trips, interviews, attendance at scholarly meetings or speaking engagements must be limited to no more than twenty days during the fellowship term, and scholars must not accept teaching appointments or other major commitments during their fellowship. Applications must be submitted electronically.

Grant Title
AIR Research Grants/Dissertation Fellowships:

Description
The Association for Institutional Research operates a grant program to support research on a wide range of issues of critical importance to U.S. higher education. The funding for these grants comes from the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the National Science Foundation (NSF) and the National Postsecondary Education Cooperative (NPEC). The program supports research of national relevance for the improvement of higher education theory and practice. Proposals that use one or more of the national datasets of NCES and NSF or that address the current NPEC focus topic will be considered. Grant funds may be used to pay for salary support, benefits (if allowable by the institution), graduate assistant salaries, travel to conferences, dissemination of results (printing, etc.), materials and supplies needed for the project, consultant services, and computer software.

Requirements
Doctoral students enrolled at a U.S. postsecondary institution are eligible for dissertation fellowships of up to $20,000 for one year to support dissertation research under the guidance of a faculty dissertation advisor. Fellowships are based on a submitted budget and paid in two installments (May 1st and January 3rd). Faculty and practitioners are eligible for research grants of up to $40,000 for one year of independent research. All grant recipients must be affiliated with a U.S. postsecondary institution or relevant nonprofit higher education organization without regard to citizenship. Unaffiliated individuals may be eligible to submit a proposal, but should contact the AIR Grant Staff before submitting a proposal. Research grants are issued to the applicant’s sponsored research unit to be dispersed according to an approved budget. To qualify for funding, the proposal submission must meet one or both of the following criteria: (1) Use data from one or more of the national NCES and/or NSF datasets (Appendix A); and/or (2) Address the current NPEC focus topic (Appendix B). Proposals may only be submitted electronically at http://airweb.org/grants/. The online submission site will be available in late October. The guidelines, online submission, and review process have been completely revised and streamlined, so please review them carefully.

Restrictions
Independent research grants are not available to students. Grant recipients may not purchase computer hardware, but may purchase software necessary for the project.

ISI William E. Simon Fellowships for Noble Purpose:

Description
The fellowship is an unrestricted cash grant that will be awarded to those graduating college seniors who have demonstrated passion, dedication, a high capacity for self-direction, and originality in pursuit of a goal that will strengthen civil society. Examples of how recipients may use their award include: engage directly in the civic life of their community; help to create opportunity for others, including job creation; advance their expertise; and fund the ultimate realization of their noble purpose. Each year ISI will award three Fellowships for Noble Purpose. One top award and two additional fellowships will be awarded each year. Guidelines and application are available online.

Requirements
Graduating college seniors who embody Mr. Simon's passion to make the most of their talents in such a way that they both realize their own capacities and contribute to larger causes beyond self are eligible.

American Sociological Association Minority Fellowships:
Description
Through its Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), the American Sociological Association (ASA) supports the development and training of sociologists of color in mental health and drug abuse research. Funded by a training grant sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) and co-funded by the National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA), MFP seeks to attract talented doctoral students to ensure a diverse and highly trained workforce is available to assume leadership roles in research related to the nation’s mental health and drug abuse research agendas.

Requirements
American citizens and permanent visa residents including, but not limited to, persons who are African American, Latino/Hispanic (e.g., Chicano, Cuban, Puerto Rican), Native American, and Asian American (e.g., Chinese, Japanese, Korean), and Pacific Islanders (e.g., Hawaiian, Guamanian, Samoan, Filipino) are eligible. The program is open to students beginning or continuing study in graduate sociology departments. New students must qualify for acceptance at accredited institutions of higher learning and express a commitment to sociological research on mental health. Upon completion of their support, recipients are expected to engage in behavioral research or teaching, or a combination thereof, for a period equal to the period of support beyond 12 months.

ARIT Fellowships for Intensive Advanced Turkish Language Study

Description
ARIT offers fellowships for 10 advanced students for participation in the summer program in intensive advanced Turkish language at Bogazici University in Istanbul. This intensive program offers the equivalent of one full academic year of study in Turkish at the college level. ARIT fellowship-supported courses are offered at the advanced level. Classes are conducted in Turkish, with informal and formal styles introduced and reviewed through instruction, language laboratory work, and open conversations with teaching assistants. Students meet with teaching assistants on an informal basis for additional instruction and free conversation. Participants also attend extracurricular activities including films, lectures, and cultural events both on- and off-campus. The fellowships cover round-trip airfare to Istanbul, application and tuition fees, and a maintenance stipend. Full-time students and scholars affiliated at academic institutions are eligible to apply. Guidelines and application are available online.

Requirements
Applicant must be a US citizen, national, or permanent resident; be currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate-level academic program, or be faculty; have a minimum B average, if still a student; and perform at the high-intermediate level on a proficiency-based admissions examination.

Woodrow Wilson Thomas R. Pickering Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowships

Description
The Thomas R. Pickering Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship program provides funding to participants as they are prepared academically and professionally to enter the United States Department of State Foreign Service. The goal of the fellowship program is to attract outstanding students who enroll in two-year master's degree programs in public policy, international affairs, public administration, or academic fields such as business, economics, political science, sociology, or foreign languages, who represent all ethnic, racial and social backgrounds and who have an interest in pursuing a Foreign Service career in the U.S. Department of State.

Requirements
Eligibility requirements include the following: only individuals who are United States citizens at the time of application will be considered; applicants must have a minimum undergraduate grade point average of 3.2 or higher on a 4.0 scale; at the time of application, candidates must be seeking admission to graduate school for the following academic year. Winners are expected to enroll in a two-year, full-time master's degree program in either public policy, international affairs, or public administration, or in an academic field such as business, economics, political science, sociology, or foreign languages (U.S. graduate institutions only); a cumulative grade point average of 3.2 or higher on a 4.0 scale must be maintained throughout participation in the program. A completed application for the Thomas R. Pickering Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship includes both an online application form, which requires secure registration at the Woodrow Wilson Foundation Web site, and a series of hard-copy supporting documents, as follows: certification of U.S. citizenship: copy of U.S. passport, birth certificate, or U.S. citizen naturalization papers; copy of GRE scores; two letters of recommendation; official academic transcripts from every undergraduate school attended; two page resume. In addition all applicants who receive(d) financial aid must also provide a copy of their most recent financial aid letter that lists grants or loans. Send all supporting documents to: Dr. Richard O. Hope, Pickering Foreign Affairs Fellowship Program, The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, P.O. Box 2437, Princeton, NJ 08543-243

Grant Title
APSA Minority Fellows Program

Description
The program is designed primarily for minority students applying to enter a doctoral program in political science for the first time. The association has re-focused and increased its efforts to assist minority students in completing their doctorates by concentrating not only on the recruitment of minorities, but also on the retention of these groups within the profession. The program designates six stipend minority fellows each year. Additional applicants who do not receive funds from the association may also be recognized and recommended for admission and financial support to graduate political science programs. Fellows with stipends receive a fellowship that is disbursed in two payments—one at the end of their first graduate year and one at the end of their second—provided that they remain in good academic standing. Awards are based on students’ undergraduate course work, GPA, extracurricular activities, GRE scores, and recommendations from faculty. Guidelines are available online.

Requirements
Applicants must: be members of one of the following racial/ethnic minority groups: African Americans, Latinos/as, and Native Americans (federal and state recognized tribes); demonstrate an interest in teaching and potential for research in political science; be a US citizen at time of award; and demonstrate financial need.

Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation Fellowships

Description
The Bradley Fellowship Program is a major part of the Foundation's program interest in strengthening America's intellectual infrastructure at the higher-education level. Begun in 1986, the program is a model for influencing the intellectual framework of national life. It helps fulfill the two basic prerequisites for liberal education -- good teaching and good curriculum -- by enabling colleges and universities to offer students in the advanced stages of graduate work the opportunity to pursue serious studies with excellent teachers. For the program, the Foundation chooses institutions of higher education each year to support graduate and post-graduate students, who are designated as Bradley Fellows. The Fellows are chosen by each institution upon the recommendation of one or more distinguished professors in the humanities, social sciences, and the law.

Grant Title
ARIT Fellowships

Description
Fellowships support research in ancient, medieval, or modern times, in any field of the humanities and social sciences, including prehistory, history, art, archaeology, literature, and linguistics as well as interdisciplinary aspects of cultural history for applicants who have completed their academic training. Postdoctoral and dissertation research fellowships may be held for terms of four months to one year. Grants for tenures up to one year will be considered, but preference will be given to projects of shorter duration. ARIT maintains two research institutes in Turkey. ARIT-Istanbul has a research library focused on Byzantine, Ottoman, and modern studies of Turkey. ARIT-Ankara focuses on art, archaeology, and ancient history in its library and serves Turkish and American archaeologists through its programs. Both institutes have residential facilities for fellows and provide general assistance as well as introductions to colleagues, institutions, and authorities in Turkey. Predoctoral applicants also may qualify for ARIT's Kress fellowship, and postdoctoral scholars also may qualify for ARIT's NEH fellowships. Applicants will be notified of the fellowship committee's decision by January 25.

Requirements
Applicants must be US citizens or a three-year resident of the US, and have completed formal academic training affiliated with US or Canadian institutions. Scholars and advanced graduate students engaged in research on ancient, medieval, or modern times in Turkey, in any field of the humanities and social sciences, are eligible. Student applicants must have fulfilled all preliminary requirements for the doctorate except the dissertation. Turkish law requires all foreign scholars, prior to entering the country, to obtain formal permission for any research to be carried out in Turkey.

APF/COGDOP Graduate Research Scholarships in Psychology

Description
The American Psychological Foundation (APF) and the Council of Graduate Departments of Psychology (COGDOP) jointly offer graduate research scholarships, including the Clarence J. Rosecrans Scholarship ($2000), the Ruth G. and Joseph D. Matarazzo Scholarship ($3000), as well as a number of $1,000 scholarships. The scholarships will be given directly to the individual graduate students enrolled in an interim master's program or doctoral program. If a student is currently enrolled in a terminal master's program, the student must intend to enroll in a PhD program. Several fellowships have been reserved for students who, at the time of application, are within the first two years of graduate study in psychology. The purpose of the scholarship program is to assist graduate students of psychology with research costs. The scholarships are administered by APA. Application and guidelines are available online.

Requirements
Each graduate department of psychology that is a member of COGDOP may submit nominations. The number of candidates that each member department is allowed to nominate depends upon the total number of students enrolled in the graduate program. Departments that have 100 or fewer students enrolled in their graduate programs may nominate one candidate; departments that have 101-200 graduate students enrolled may nominate up to two candidates; and departments that have more than 200 graduate students enrolled may nominate up to three candidates.

Kluge Center Kislak Short-Term Fellowships in American Studies

Description
The Program offers short-term fellowships for independent scholars, undergraduate and graduate students, and college and university faculty to conduct research based on items from the Kislak Collection. The Program supports scholarly research that contributes significantly to a greater understanding of the cultures and history of the Americas. It provides an opportunity for a period of up to four months of concentrated use of materials from the Kislak Collection and other collections of the Library of Congress, through full-time residency at the Library. The program supports research projects in the disciplines of archaeology, history, cartography, epigraphy, linguistics, ethno-history, ethnography, bibliography and sociology, with particular emphasis on Florida, the circum-Caribbean region and Mesoamerica. We encourage interdisciplinary projects that combine disciplines in novel and productive ways.

SSRC Eurasia Program Predissertation Training Fellowships

Description
These awards invite graduate students in the early stages of their graduate careers (preference is given to those in their first or second years) to enhance their research skills for projects on the New States of Eurasia, the Soviet Union and/or the Russian Empire. Awards of up to $7,000 are intended to support the following types of training: language learning at a recognized program in the US or abroad (when justifiable, independent language study may be acceptable); formal training away from one’s home institution to acquire analytical or methodological skills normally unavailable to the candidate; and well-defined exploratory research expressly leading to the formulation of a dissertation proposal. Applicants will be asked to select one of two options when applying for this fellowship: Predissertation Training Fellowship with Language Component (if their project includes a language component of any kind, even if it is only a portion of their full project); or Pre-dissertation Training Fellowship without Language Component (if they are not proposing to undertake any form of language training).

Requirements
All applicants must be citizens or permanent residents of the United States as of the application submission deadline. Applicants must be enrolled in a doctoral program or equivalent degree in the social sciences or humanities, not yet having sat for their qualifying exams or advanced to the Ph.D. candidacy. It is expected that the applicant will complete all fellowship activities before advancing to candidacy.

SSRC Dissertation Proposal Development Fellowships (DPDF)

Description
The Fellowship is a strategic fellowship program designed to help graduate students in the humanities and social sciences formulate doctoral dissertation proposals that are intellectually pointed, amenable to completion in a reasonable time frame, and competitive in fellowship competitions. The program is organized around distinct research fields, sub-disciplinary and interdisciplinary domains with common intellectual questions and styles of research. Each year, an SSRC Faculty Advisory Committee selects five fields proposed by pairs of research directors who are tenured professors at different doctoral degree-granting programs at U.S. universities. Research directors receive a stipend of $7500. Graduate students in the early phase of their research, generally 2nd and 3rd years, apply to one of five research fields led by the two directors; each group is made up of ten to twelve graduate students. Fellows participate in two workshops: one in the late spring that helps prepare them to undertake pre-dissertation research on their topics; and one in the early fall, designed to help them synthesize their summer research and to draft proposals for dissertation funding. Fellows are eligible to apply for up to $5000 from SSRC to support pre-dissertation research during the summer.

Requirements
Students in the humanities and social sciences undertaking doctoral dissertation research may apply for one of the five annual research fields named. The program is designed for second and third year students who have not yet had their dissertation proposals approved by their thesis directors and their home institutions. Only in exceptional circumstances will the DPDF entertain fellowship applications from first-year students.

SSRC International Dissertation Research Fellowships

Description
The program supports distinguished graduate students in the humanities and social sciences conducting dissertation research outside the United States. Seventy-five fellowships will be awarded with funds provided by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. The program is committed to scholarship that advances knowledge about non-U.S. cultures and societies grounded in empirical and site-specific research (involving fieldwork, research in archival or manuscript collections, or quantitative data collection). The program promotes research that is situated in a specific discipline and geographical region and is engaged with interdisciplinary and cross-regional perspectives. Fellowships will provide support for nine to twelve months of dissertation research. Individual awards will be approximately $20,000.

Requirements
The program is open to full-time graduate students in the humanities and social sciences -- regardless of citizenship -- enrolled in doctoral programs in the United States. Applicants must complete all Ph.D. requirements except on-site research by the time the fellowship begins or by December, whichever comes first.

Restrictions
Proposals that identify the United States as a case for comparative inquiry are welcome; however, proposals that require no field research outside the United States are not eligible.

AAR Rome Prize Fellowships

Description
At its principal site in Rome, the academy operates a program of fellowships and residencies that has at its core the development of gifted American artists and scholars. Each year, through a national competition, the academy awards fellowships in the fine arts and pre- and postdoctoral fellowships in the humanities. Rome Prize winners pursue independent projects, which vary in content and scope, for periods ranging from six months to two years at the academy. To complement their work, a series of walks, talks and tours in and around Rome, Italy, and the Mediterranean is offered during the year. The academy's Rome Prize winners are part of a residential community of 65 to 70 people each year. The artists and scholars who make up this multidisciplinary community also have the opportunity to foster their work through exchanges with members of the Italian and newly-united European artistic and scholarly communities.

Requirements
Applicants for the Rome Prize fellowships must be US citizens at the time of application, with the exception of those competing for postdoctoral fellowships sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities. US citizens and those foreign nationals who have lived in the United States for the three years immediately preceding the application deadline may apply for the NEH postdoctoral fellowships. Graduate students in the humanities may apply only for predoctoral fellowships.

Restrictions
Previous winners of the predoctoral Rome Prize are not eligible to apply for the Academy's postdoctoral fellowships. Undergraduate students are not eligible for Rome Prize fellowships. There is an application fee based upon the postmark date and the number of disciplines in which you are applying. Those applicants applying solely for NEH post-doctoral fellowships are not required to submit application fees.

Field Museum Visiting Scholarships

Description
Providing opportunities for scientists who wish to use the Field Museum's collections, funds are earmarked for travel and for subsistence while visitors are conducting their research. Young professionals and graduate students can be funded for periods of a few days to several weeks. Owing to the limited availability of these funds, awards are typically less than $1,500 per scholar. Short or extended-term visits by distinguished national and international scientists can be funded for periods of several weeks up to one year. These stipends are negotiable.

Requirements
Applications must be endorsed by a Field Museum curator (see website for list of curators responsible for the collection you wish to study). Contact the appropriate curator beforehand to communicate your background, goals and objectives. Applications require statements regarding: (a) purpose and significance of the proposed research, (b) relevance of the Field Museum’s collections to the project, (c) collaboration(s) with Field Museum curators, if any, (d) procedures and methods used in the project.
Restrictions
Only electronic applications using the museum's web site will be accepted.

Princeton University Whiting Postdoctoral Fellowships

Description
The program awards two postdoctoral fellowships to humanities scholars early in their careers to undertake and/or complete a major project, interact with a group of diverse postdoctoral fellows and regular faculty, and contribute to the undergraduate teaching program at the university. Fellows are appointed to a home department during the one-year tenure and will be expected to be in residence spending most of their time on their own research and to present a seminar on their work at least once during the year in their department of appointment. In addition, fellows are expected to teach one undergraduate course during the academic year. The fellowship may be renewable for one additional year. Interested applicants should send, in addition to a letter of application, a current curriculum vita, including educational background, professional experience, and prior publications; an abstract of their completed PhD dissertation, a two-page statement of their proposed research and writing project for the fellowship; and two confidential letters of recommendation, one from their dissertation supervisor and one from another established scholar in the field.

Requirements
Scholars who have been awarded a PhD from a US institution of higher education between January 1, 2001, and January 1 2003, in the fields of architecture (history, theory, and criticism), art history, language and literature, history (including history of science), East Asian Studies, Near Eastern Studies, philosophy (including political philosophy and classical philosophy), and religious studies are eligible.

Amount

Center for the Study of Religion Fellowships

Description
The Center brings a select number of pre-tenure scholars and recent Ph.D. graduates to Princeton University to study religion and religious history. The fellows, who are appointed by the Dean of the Faculty, devote time to servicing the intellectual life of the Center and the University through mentoring graduate and undergraduate students and participating in one of the Center's weekly interdisciplinary seminar. For 2007-2008, fellows will be appointed in two areas: Christian Thought and Practice, special emphasis on the religious life of American Christians, congregations, or clergy; and Public Theology: special emphasis on contemporary issues bridging theology and the social sciences, such as just war theory, pluralism, or social welfare.

Requirements
To apply, submit CV, 3 letters of recommendation, a 5 page proposal, and published or unpublished paper demonstrating scholarly command of topic of one of the three themes. Applications available on Web site.

Restrictions
Princeton University PhDs are not eligible.

Samples
2006-2007 Visiting Fellows include: Rebecca L. Davis, who received her Ph.D. in History at Yale University in 2006 and will join the history department at the University of Delaware as an assistant professor, specializing in the histories of sexuality, immigration, and ethnicity in the United State; K. Healon Gaston, who will receive her Ph.D. in History from the University of California at Berkeley in 2006, and whose research focuses on the role of religion in American public life, with particular emphasis on the relationship between theology and democratic theory. She is currently working on a manuscript, entitled America’s Judeo-Christian Moment: Religion, Secularism, and the Cold War Redefinition of Democracy, 1938-1973.

Dorot Foundation Grants

Description
The foundation is concerned with the transmission of Jewish heritage through the generations. The foundation's grantmaking demonstrates a commitment to the Jewish past, present, and future by supporting activities in the following areas: higher education--Dorot Fellowship in Israel (a one-year, postcollegiate program designed for future American Jewish lay leaders) and Dorot Travel Grants (block grants to selected public and private colleges and universities in North America to support mainly undergraduates--up to 20 percent of funds may be spent on graduate students--in travel to and study in Israel); cultural institutions and libraries in the United States and Israel; the environment in Israel; religious pluralism in Israel; preservation of Jewish antiquity with a special emphasis on the Dead Sea Scrolls; and board-initiated grants. Letters of inquiry are accepted at any time. The board meets in February and October to consider grants. Guidelines are available online.

Requirements

Acton Institute for the Study of Religion and Liberty Grants

Description
Many cultures are exhibiting growing distrust and suspicion of economics, profit, limited government, rule of law, and free markets. Given this, there is a significant need to redeem these concepts by examining them in relation to theology, human dignity, and the principles of a free and virtuous society. To encourage such developments, the Acton Institute's scholarship programs support future religious and intellectual leaders who show potential in advancing understanding of this relationship. The Acton Institute offers three programs: Calihan Fellowships, Scholarships and travel grants open to all seminarians and graduate students studying theology, philosophy, economics, or related fields. Centesimus Annus Scholarships, scholarships and travel grants for seminarians and graduate students studying theology, philosophy, economics, or related fields. Eligible applicants must be pursuing degrees in Rome or at Pontifical Universities throughout the world. Novak Award, $10,000 award for young scholars who demonstrate outstanding intellectual merit in advancing the understanding of theology's connection to human dignity, the importance of the rule of law, limited government, religious liberty, and economic freedom.

National Security Education Program David L. Boren Graduate Fellowships

Description
Each year, NSEP publishes a list of geographic areas, languages, and fields of study identified as critical to US national security. In addition, it emphasizes a diverse list of fields of study, including business, economics, history, international affairs, law, applied sciences and engineering, health and biomedical sciences, political science, and other social sciences. Applications will be considered for study in other countries and world regions where increased understanding and appreciation represents an important contribution to US national security. Fellowship recipients are required to seek employment with an agency or office of the federal government involved in national security affairs. Awards are made for a minimum of one and a maximum of six academic semesters (24 months). Applicants design their own programs and may combine domestic language and cultural study with overseas study. All fellowships must include study of a modern language other than English and the study of an area and culture.

Requirements
NSEP welcomes applications from US citizens enrolled in or applying to a graduate degree program in an accredited US college or university located within the United States.

Restrictions
Support may not be used for study of Western Europe, Canada, Australia, or New Zealand.

Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center Research Fellowships

Description
The center offers a number of fellowships on an international basis to scholars for the purpose of conducting research based on the center's collections. The center is the principal rare book and manuscript library of the University of Texas at Austin and noted for its collections of British, American, and French literary materials, with major strengths in photography, music, film, and theater arts. Most fellowships are for one month, but a limited number of fellowships may be awarded for periods of residency up to four months to scholars with longer-term projects. Recipients are expected to be in continuous residence for the duration of their awards. The program also awards domestic and foreign travel stipends to scholars with research projects that require less than one month's research at the center (stipends may not be combined with other Ransom Center fellowships); and dissertation fellowships, which are designated for graduate students who are working on doctoral dissertations. Guidelines are available online.

Requirements
Applicants must have received the PhD and be engaged in postdoctoral or equivalent research based on the center's collections. A two-page proposal, one-page curriculum vita, and two letters of recommendation are required for application.
Restrictions
Individuals who have received the HRHRC Research Fellowship are ineligible to reapply for one year. Fellowships do not support work on the dissertation.

Samples
Brooke Kroeger (New York, NY)--for a biography of Fannie Hurst, $5000; S.P. Rossenbaum (Toronto, Canada)--for a literary history of Georgian Bloomsbury, $1500; Sally Cline (Cambridge, England)--for a biography of Radclyffe Hall.

Grant Title
Lady Davis Fellowships

Description
Fellowships of three to nine months make the cultural heritage of ancient and modern Israel widely known to people from both technologically advanced and evolving societies. The program enables scholars of various disciplines and nationalities to study, perform research, or teach at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem or at the Technion-Israel Institute of Technology, Haifa. Types of support include postdoctoral fellowships visiting professorships, and graduate studies abroad. Prospective candidates for Hebrew University should contact the university to ensure that there is a faculty member willing to sponsor the application. Fellows will be selected on the basis of demonstrated excellence in their studies, promise of distinction in their chosen fields of specialization, as well as on qualities of mind, intellect, and character. The graduate fellowship includes tuition, travel, and a stipend to meet reasonable living expenses; the postdoctoral fellowship includes travel and a larger stipend to meet reasonable living expenses; and the visiting professorship includes travel and stipend.

Requirements
Citizenship is unrestricted. Only students who are enrolled in a PhD program overseas are eligible applicants for the graduate fellowship at the Hebrew University. Applicants for the Technion must have completed their studies with excellent marks.

Deadline
Contact sponsor.

Grant Title
John Dana Archbold Fellowships

Description
The fellowship program supports educational exchange between the United States and Norway. It is administered by the Nansen Fund in cooperation with the Norway-American Association in Oslo and the University of Oslo. Each fellowship provides for a year of graduate or postdoctoral study and research in Norway. The University of Oslo International Summer School offers Norwegian language courses and orientation for six weeks before the regular academic year begins. University of Oslo waives tuition costs; attendance is required. The maintenance stipend is sufficient to meet ordinary expenses of a single person. Travel allowance is provided to cover overseas airfare to and from Oslo. Application must be complete, including references and transcripts. Successful candidates will be notified before March 15. Fellowships are for one year starting in even-numbered years only.

Requirements
Eligibility is limited to individuals who are citizens and residents of the United States, 20 to 35 years old, in good health, and of good character. Applicants are judged competitively, with emphasis on proven ability in their field, seriousness of purpose, and a record of social adaptability. A high degree of proficiency in the Norwegian language is needed only in such fields as Norwegian literature and law; otherwise it is not necessary particularly for persons doing independent research. Undergraduate applicants must have a BA or BS degree before departure for Norway.

Institute of Textile Technology Graduate Fellowships

Description
Up to 10 students will each be awarded a tuition scholarship and a nonservice fellowship. Each ITT fellowship provides the student with a stipend for the nine months of the academic year. The Academic Committee will decide which students receive these financial awards. Students also may apply for Federal aid in the form of student loans. Fellowships require no service, such as assistance with laboratory work or teaching, and are continued for the second year, provided the student's performance during the first year is satisfactory. All students are expected to maintain a minimum average of B in the course work.

Requirements
Fellowships are intended for US citizens holding bachelor's degrees and interested in careers in the textile industry.

Restrictions
If at the end of the first year the required average is not attained, the fellowship cannot be renewed for the second year.

Amount
$12,000 stipend plus tuition and fees per academic year

Grant Title
Huebner Foundation Fellowships

Description
The purpose of the fellowships is to increase the number of qualified professors specializing in insurance and risk management by providing financial assistance to graduate students aspiring to academic careers at the college or university level. Postdoctoral fellowships also are available. A successful candidate for a Foundation grant must certify that it is his or her intention to (1) follow a career as a full-time college or university faculty member with a teaching or research specialization in insurance economics and risk management, and in a related discipline such as finance, for a graduate degree; and (3) not engage in any outside work for pay or profit without the consent of the Executive Director of the Foundation during the period of the fellowship.

Requirements
Applicant must be a citizen of the United States or Canada and have a bachelor degree from an accredited college or university. Candidates for Foundation grants must apply on a special form available from the Foundation. Candidates for Foundation grants must apply separately and directly for admission to the Wharton Doctoral Program. They must take the Graduate Management Examination Test (GMAT) or the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) administered by the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, New Jersey. A copy of the GMAT or GRE results must be sent by ETS to the Wharton Doctoral Program office, located at 1150 Steinberg Hall-Dietrich Hall at the University of Pennsylvania.
