

Michigan State University AGEP Scholar Award

Program Background

The Alliances for Graduate Education and the Professoriate (AGEP) at Michigan State University (MSU) was started with funds from the National Science Foundation program that supports recruitment, retention, and graduation of U.S. students in doctoral programs. The focus of AGEP places special emphasis on a fully inclusive recruitment and development of students from U.S. population groups historically underrepresented in fields of the sciences, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM), and the social, behavioral, and economic (SBE) sciences.

A goal of AGEP at MSU is to foster the emergence and development of a racially and culturally inclusive community of scholars among graduate students in STEM and SBE disciplines. A feature of the MSU AGEP Learning Community is once monthly meetings to develop dialog across disciplines and to promote fellowship among peers in addition to sharing information that is key to success in graduate training and beyond.

The Graduate School at MSU announces the availability of the AGEP Scholar Award in the amount of $2000. Award recipients in good standing will be eligible to apply each year.

Eligibility Requirements:

- Eligibility begins in year two (2) of the Master's or Doctoral Program
- A full-time graduate student in good standing in a STEM or SBE graduate program at MSU
- Demonstrated commitment to AGEP goals, and participation in the MSU AGEP Learning Community and Community activities for at least one (1) year before applying, including attendance of at least 3 Learning Community meetings within the current or previous academic year
- Be enrolled in at least one (1) graduate credit in the semester of the award.
- Have not received an AGEP scholar award previously in the current academic or calendar year.
- Note: each scholar is limited to a maximum of four (4) awards over their academic career at MSU

Award Details:

- Limit of $2,000/year (up to four (4) awards) with any possible combination of travel and professional development (including books, society memberships, software, laptops)
- Awardees are able to apply for all other types of funding provided by The Graduate School at MSU
- A brief written summary of the activities supported by the award is required as well as a brief oral report to the MSU AGEP Learning Community

Selection Criteria:

- Current and active participation in the MSU AGEP Learning Community
- Merit of the proposed activities (including how it relates to preparing the candidate for the professoriate)
- Letter of recommendation/nomination by the major research advisor.

Additional Application Materials:

- Detailed proposal of professional travel and/or professional development activities to be supported by the award
- Detailed budget of how the award will be used
- A narrative (500-word limit) about the applicant's participation in MSU AGEP Community activities
